CHICAGO, August 23.—The Times this morning has the following, accompanied with favorable editorial mention:

There will be a mass meeting in the city of Springfield, on Thursday, the 29th day of August, A. D. 1872, of the untransferrable Democrats of the State of Illinois, who are in favor of the nomination of Democratic candidates for President and Vice President of the United States on a Democratic platform at a convention to be held in Louisville, Kentucky, on the 3d day of September. The third day he saw Extract and Platina dethe United States on a Democratic platform objects of the mass meeting are the selection of forty-two delegates and forty-two alternate delegates to the National Democratic Convention at Louisville; to effect a perma-nent organization of the Democratic party of the State, and to appoint a State Central

NEW YORK CITY

How Dix was Nominated-North Caro lina Intrigues-Etc. New York, August 22-The Tribune's cor espondent tells how General Dix was nominated as follows: "The veteran wire puller, Thurlow Weed, has made one of the great-est successes of his life, in securing the nomination by acclamation of General John A. Dix for the first place on the ticket of the Grant State Convention. It is admitted on all sides that the game was played by Mr. Weed in a masterly manner. The old man, according to trustworthy authority, had given the Custom-house officers to under-How the Nomination of Dix was stand clearly that no Republican had the slightest chance of being elected, and that it would not do to run A. B. Cornell for Lieu-tenant Governor, and it was supposed by those not in the secret that Dix was out of the field, as his name was not mentioned in the Convention until after the delegates had got into a snarl over the candidates.

"The Chairman had already twice directed the Clerk to call the roll, when an unknown rose from a seat on the stage, and in a short and carefully prepared speech, presented the name of John A. Dix. His speech was very effectively delivered, and was received with what appeared to be immense enthusiasm and applause. In the midst of great disorder county after county announced its intention of throwing a solid vote for Dix, and candidate after candidate was withdrawn. The details of the operation had been skillfully arranged by a great magician. The unknown man turned out to be George W. Clark, Mr. Weed's substitute in the Convention for the veteran himself. He has been in the city for two days, but did not dare to expose his shattered nervous system to the rough shock of the physical contest.'

(Special to the Cincinnati Commercial.) Senator Clingman, of North Carolina, writes to a friend in this city estimating the number of illegal votes cast for Caldwell in the recent State election at from eight to ten thousand. In his own county, Buncombe, he says: "There was an active canvass on both sides, and yet the whole vote was three hundred and fifty less than the voting population, as shown by the census, while the heavy negro county of Halifax shows eight hundred and fifty votes in excess of its voting population. A like result occurred in many other large negro counties, while in most counties of the State the deficiency of votes is more than one hundred and fifty per cent., and in several of them nearly one-third below the voting popula-tion. We have the extraordinary spectacle presented in some counties where the negro opulation is numerous of on excess of votes over voters; in some counties where there are at least a hundred small distilleries, the owners of them, by passing sums to officers, are permitted to go on without prosecution it they vote the Radical ticket."

A well-posted correspondent, writing from Massachusetts, takes grounds that it is very evident that Butler is playing a double game in regard to the Governorship. At the elec-tion of delegates to the State Convention, in Governor Washburn's own town, Butler came within two votes of securing a delegation pledged to him. The indications are that Butler is determined to secure the nomination, and only published a letter declaring that was not a candidate to capture the nomination by a sly dodge, instead of a bold ught, which failed him last year.

The Insurrection at Collierville.

[Special to the _incinnati Enquirer.] Мемрнія, August 22.—A telegram is just received here from the Marshal at Collierville, a few miles from here, stating that a riot had broken out between the negroes and whites, and calling for the assistance of the police. ### HARPER'S HORSES: Their Eastern Races Sold by Sharpers and Jockeys?

From the Pittsburg Dispatch.

Mr. Harper's stud of horses passed through here yesterday. We saw him every day during the meeting, and can testify that he was the most impassive man there o thousands who attendad races, and showed less interest feated by Sister to Salina without evincing the slightest interest in the matter, though ine crowd had backed his entries heavily and lost thousands by their defeat, and on the same day his horse Empress was "bowl-ed over" by Arizona without eliciting as much as a remark from "the old man," watched the race from a seat behind the re-porters' bench. On the fifth day his favorite, Lyttleton, was beaten badly Anne, and there was a good deal of feelin among the spectators in regard to "Uncle John's" apathy touching the issue. Indeed, so far did the feeling run, that we heard it loudly charged that the man was in his dotage, and that the management of his herses being left to stable boys and jeckeys, over whom he exercised little or n supervision, the ill success of his stable was due to their dishonesty rather than to my want of merit in the horses themselves. It was charged, with good reason, too, that Lyttleton's jockey might have won the race had he ridden differently, and insinuation dollar on the whole stable under its present management. In short, "Uncle John" has lost the confidence of the racing public, and never more will it back his stable with the vim it did in the past, when his horses were 'run to win," and his trainers and jockeys could not, as now, be approached by the lass of sharpers who, both at Saratoga and Long Branch, continually hovered ar cothe, etc. CINNCINNATI, August 23.-The shoemakers of this city are on a general strike. About two weeks ago Messrs. Stribley & Co., boot and shoe manufacturers at Walnut Hills, disregarding the mandate of the St. Crispin Society, employed in their manufactory a number of boys from the House of Refuge. In consequence of this the Crispins struck. Most of them secured employment in down town shops, and the question of jurisdiction in the matter of regulating boot and shoe manufactories seemed to be making fair progress toward a settlement, when, a few days ago, the Crispins from Stribley's were sought out by their new employers and discharged.

On Wednesday last, the Knights of St.
Crispin in the city inaugurated a general strike to bring the "bosses" to terms. On Wednesday night, the strikers held a meeting and notified the national association of their action. The manufacturers are also reported to have not and determined to passive to have met and determined to persist.

CHILLICOTHE, August 23 .- At 3:30 vester day afternoon a whirlwind passed over this city, striking and tearing off the roof of the Allen Block, on the corner of Paint and Water streets. The rubbish fell in front of Water streets. The rubbish fell in front of H. Burkley's and Schaeffer & Kramer's store, and seriously injured a man named Fellonstine, from Columbus, and a boy named Goodrich, about sixteen years old. Fellonstine will probably die from his wounds; the boy Goodrich has only flesh wounds.

The storm also unroofed the Masonic Hall, Kaiser's Plock and the Chillietthe Meshing.

Kaiser's Block, and the Chillicothe Machine Works, where three men narrowly escaped death. The storm came from the northwest, and was accompanied by a slight shower.

Gen. Dix will Decline [Special to the Cincinnati Enquirer.] New York, August 22.-It is said that NEW YORK, August 22.—It is said that General Dix will decline to accept the nomination of the Custom-house faction for Governor. He is Comptroller of Trinity Church corporation, and as such he has to attend to its vast estate, which is said to be worth $60,000,000. The position is very lucrative, so that General Dix will not resign that office. It was formerly held by Manager 1. that office. It was formerly held by Mr. Wm. E. ### ANOTHER WRECK.

An United States Express Wagon Spiletered.

The usual rush and jam of freight trains occurred again about ten o'clock this forenoon, at the east end of the Union Depot blockading the street and detaining numberless vehicles. Among those impatiently waiting was Joe Tillotson, driver of the United States Express wagon. After the inner freight train had started west, Joe whipped up to cross the track close to Wiles's wholesale store, not noticing that a Peru pony and a heavy train were coming east on the outside. The flagman saw the danger and tried to stop him. Barely had the horse passed the track before the engine struck the wagon, pushing it against the heavy telegraph pole and crushing it to pieces. Mr. Tillotson kept his seat and held to the reins as long as possible, but when the collision came he was thrown to the ground and slightly injured. The horse was not damaged, but everything else was wrecked. The accident appears to have been unavoidable, and it is fortunate that it was not accompanied with loss of life or limb.

A Frightened Hog.

The noble manner in which some men conduct themselves in the hour of danger, was illustrated recently in a panic which occurred on an East river steamer caused by an accident to the machinery. One man snatched a life-preserver from the hands of a woman and encased his own manly chest with it, while another provided himself with six life preservers and was in the act of putting them all on, one over the other, when he was forced to deliver five of them to wo-

All the Mexican revolutionary leaders have accepted the amnesty offered them except Garcy De Cadena, who, holding out defiantly, was captured. Porfirio Diaz is expected in the capital next week. President Lerdo De Tajeda entertains the kindliest feeling toward him, and will probably as feeling toward him, and will pr pint him to an important office. The Cab-

THE Liberal Republicans and Democrats of Michigan nominated Governor Austin Blair as their candidate for Governor, yesterday. Mr. Blair was the great war Governor of Michigan, is now a member of Congress and one of the purest and ablest men in the public service.

Is there any good reason why the taxpayers of Marion county should continue to pay one hundred thousand dollars a year to the five principal office-holders? The work can be done just as well and just as safely for one-fourth the amount, and would be well paid for then.

It is estimated by good judges that the Recordership of this county is worth at least ten thousand dollars a year. And yet this is the least profitable of the county offices. Is it fair or right that any man should be made independently rich by holding an office one term, when neither the work done, the ability required or the responsibility involved are worth a quarter of that sum.

Ar the last election the Republican party in this county and the candidates were pledged to a reduction of the fees and salaries in the county offices. How has that pledge been carried out? The Legislature made a law, but the Courts have made it inoperative in some cases and in others the office-holders have ignored it, while the men who advocated the law in the Legislature were thrown over when seeking renomination.

Very consistent to see the leaders trying to prevent their opponents from accepting the doctrines they have urged them for so long a time to receive.

A FRIEND complained vesterday that the papers were too full of politics. The papers are but the expression of public sentiment, and as the people are full of politics, so must the papers be. The subject is the all-engrossing one in every part of the country and forms the bulk of the news. We can find little else in our exchanges, and it is rare indeed to come across an editorial that is not connected with politics. Newspaper readers will have to put up with it until after the election, when we shall all quiet down for another four years.

BEN. BUTLER is vigorously working for the Gubernatorial nomination in Massachusetts although he has asserted that he did not want it. The influence of the Administration is being used in his favor, to such an extent that in Gretafield, Gover-nor Washburn's own home, Butler came within one vote of beating him in the selection of delegates to the State Convention. Butler certainly getsfull pay for all that he does for the Administration. We should like to see him nominated, for if Charles Francis Adams is put up as the Liberal candidate Butler would be bottled up most effectually.

What Will Injure the Finances.

The Grant Republicans have had a great deal to say about the financial distress that would follow Mr. Greelev's election to the Presidency, and it is a common thing to hear some of them, who 000 .- [Chicago Tribune. know as little about finances as they do about the transmigration of souls, assert that the country will be ruined if Grant should be beaten. Why this would be the case is more than they can tell, but their leaders say so and they believe it; the leaders say Mr. Greeley's opinions upon financial questions are so revolutionary or so vague, so opposed to all principles of political economy or so preposterous, so silly or so profound that the business men are afraid of him. If he is elected gold will go up, bonds will go down, credit will be impaired and in sixty or ninety days the whole country will be bankrupt. This is the way the speakers and papers talk and they actually find a good many people who believe

Great financial crises are never caused by the operations of one man or by the occurrence of any one event, no matter how important that may be. They have a multitude of causes reaching through a long period. Continued extravagance, abuse of credit, impairment of values and above all heavy indulgence in speculation and departure from safe business principles produce financial disturbances. If a man spends one thousand dollars where he receives only five hundred dollars he is sure to come to ruin sometime or other, no matter who is elected President or what his views on financial questions may be. The same is true of the community well as the individual. If the causes which produce a commercial crisis have as with Mr. Greeley for President. Even admitting that Mr. Greeley's views are unsound, which we do not. they would have little if any effect upon the business of the country. The President has scarcely anything to do with the financial operations of the Government. He appoints his Secretary and the Secretary generally has a policy-we hear of Chase's policy, or McCulloch's policy, or Boutwell's policy, but never of Lincoln's or Johnson's or Grant's policy-but the Secretary is powerless to do anything without the aid of Congress. The President can not carry out any peculiar views and his opinions are of little more consemence than those of any other man, uness he can persuade Congress that they are right. Whether such a body of men representing so many varied and conflicting interests and holding so many opinions, could be induced to adopt legislation that would produce a crisis or disturb our financial condition, we leave to the common sense of our readers to decide. But there is one great financial danger entering into this campaign, and that grows out of the condition of the Southern States. These States have been in the hands and under the control of as corrupt a set of men as ever existed, who the latter of which are made with great care have plundered and robbed the people in and are really a very nest and pretty stricle every manner and at every time. No one can deny this; no one dare deny it. They have increased the debts of some of the States to an amount greater than the National Government ever owed before the war, they have piled up the taxes and are sucking the blood of the community as fast as they can. Bonds have been issued by the million and sold at destructive rates. Old bonds have been reissued and put upon the market, and the States have been obligated to pay millions of dollars extreme poverty," etc., etc. "I not belong to the K. The fact is, Mr. Willson's "extreme most prosperous of them many years to entirely lift it. But it is certain that if these blood-suckers are given another lease of power, as they will be if General Grant is re-elected, they will pile up the stale. debts so they never will be paid; for the people maddened to desperation will repudiate them on the first opportunity. What will be the consequence? A blow will be -inflicted upon American credit from which it will take years to recover, and which will be of incalculable injury. Can any one estimate the damage done to this country by Mississippi's repudiaof her debt many years That was comparatively small amount, and how much worse will it be when not one State but a dozen join in repudiating hundreds of millions of dollars. ### NIAGaRs.

A Mystified Poet Let Loose at the Falls George Alfred Townsend in the Chicago Tribune.] This Niagara border is a superb place for the observing men to come and spend a sea-son together, talking, studying, and seeing Here are probably drawn nearest to our time the visible profiles and draughts of that other geological America which preceded the out-lines of the present, when Lake Michigan was the most stupendous body of fresh water water on the globe, extending as far east as Batavia, New York, and Ottawa, Canada. and discharging into the Gulf of Mexico through the Desplaines, Kankakee, and Illi nois rivers, thus accounting for the enorg proportions of the valley of the Mississippi compared to that present dwindled stream The eastern barrier, percolated and saturated with water, mined by trosts, and dashed against by such gales and tidal waves as have, within men's memories, raised the water in the rapids six feet, cut at last, in a space of time computed at 72,000 years, a chasm seven miles long, 300 feet deep, and 1,000 feet wide. Every winter's freezing operated against the barrier, when once penetrated ever so little, like a vast hydrostatic press; and every summer's thaw carried downward toward Lake Ontario as a dumping ground the particles and masses of rock detached by frost. And thus, in the thousands of years which to God are but as a day, the cataract struggled in the womb of the continent, and, when it was born at last. the rainbow fluttered above it like the Christian's nativity-star.

Thinking of such revolutions and results as this in the patient processes of time, one looks upon Niagara with the feelings of a poet, naturalist, and theologian at once, and by a leap of the imagination, instant and brief, comprehends the mightier evolution of man himself from time-a discharged and spiritualized atom, slowly organized in the changes of Nature, and sent buzzing over the falls of Genesis, for Mr. Moses, like another Charlevoix, to be his special correspondent. and describe his appearance more or less extries and drops into the hotel to eat some very old cheese.

WAKING DOLL'S SHOPS

A Large and Growing Business. Within the past six or eight years, says the Shoe and Leather Reporter, this business has grown into considerable importance and there are several manufacturers who devote their whole time to this department, employing quite a number of operatives. They make use of scraps of morocoo, etc., from shoe manufactories and book-binders, which formerly were thrown away. At first the shoes made were of the simplest character, and as far as any special shape was concern ed, they were merely semblances of shoes. But within two or three years there has been much improvement in the style and of manufacture-the fashions day are followed closely, and the pets of the household must have their dolls dressed in all respects similar to older people, and there fore several pairs of shoes must be provided for the several dresses—slippers, ties, walking shoes, etc., and in various colors. They must be made to button, tie or lace as the case may be.

One of the most popular makers of these articles, who brands his production with the trade mark of "J. J.," informs us that he makes 50,000 pairs per annum, using about 20,000 feet of morocco and sheep skins mostly of scraps, besides cutting considera-ble whole stock, of all the fashionable colors. yellow, bronze, blue, pink, red and cuir, which sell to the findings dealers at $1 50@ 50 per dozen.

There are two grades of shoes, one for common delis and the other for wax dolls; some of them being large enough for a fiesh and blood baby of tender months.

Some of the scarecrows this establishment are really triumphs of office-holding ingenuity and artisanship Properly dressed up and mounted, they can hardly fail to frighten timid voters away from Greeley. Yet the biggest and most ter-rifying of them are only scarecrows, after all. They will not bear close approach and inspection. They will scare only those who lack the inquisitiveness or the courage to walk up to them and see what they are made

For instance: We have seen it gravely asserted in the organs within a week that if the American people make Mr. Greeley President, it will be at the imminent risk of another rebellion; a renewal of the attempt of the Southerners to secede and set up a separate confederacy. Mr. Wendell Phillips and other oracles of the Grant stump have been recently delivered of similar warnings. It is quite possible that there are nervous people to be found here and there in these Northern States who have been seriously impressed by this view of the case. Yet what nsense it is, when examined in the light of reason and common sense. The attempt to secede was made for a particular motive and under the grossest misapprehension and self delusion. The slaveholders were rightly fearful of the growing power of the free States in the Federal councils, and of the development of anti slavery sentiment which more than kept pace with this growth. They went out of the Union with the idea and purpose of building up a great slave-owning republic. If they could have foreseen the consequences, they would never have taken the first step. But they were given up to strong delusion, to believe a lie. They un-derrated the fighting qualities of the North its courage, its tenacity, its resources. of them anticipated war. There might be a campaign or two, perhaps, and a little bloodbut the Democrats, or the money loving Yankee tradesmen, or foreign intervention would soon put a stop to it. They made their venture-with what results we all know. Yet there are men—outside of the lunatic asylum, too—who would have us the hight of the blow the Lizzie sailed into believe the white people of the Southern States capable of inviting a repetition of that itter experience.

True, the motive for secession no longer exists. True, the chattles of 1860 are now A merican citizens with ballots and shot-gurs True, the old delusions about Northern pusil lanimity and weakness have been effectually dispelled. True, the old leaders are either dead, shelved, or frankly repentant, well-be-haved and patriotic. True, the young South, which is now coming to the front, is as loyal, as proud of the one indivisible Republic, as eager to serve it, as the youth of Massachu-setts, or Pennsylvania, or Illinois. True, every material interest of the lately rebellious States, now that slavery has been wiped out, is a link to bind them to us. True their representative men have formally and solemnly accepted a political platform embracing the sovereignty of the Union, impartial suffrage and equal rights; and are supporting a candidate who represents these three ideas as perfectly as any living American. Yet the organs and the Wendell Phillipses affect to discern danger of a new secession and another war if this candidate succeeds. Don't be rightened, voters. It's only a scarecrow. Quite of a piece with it is the assertion, so often heard of late, that Mr. Greeley's election, of it doesn't actually bring upon us another rebellion, will at least be the signal for a concerted and probably successful attempt to obtain payment for the emencipated slaves and to secure the assumption of the rebel debt. See Mr. Wendell Phillips's recent letter. It ought not to be neces say a word in reply to such an assertion as this. But as there are imperfectly informed and apprehensive voters who really seem to be troubled by it, it may be well to answer it, once for all. It will not need many words. A short horse is soon curried. The fourth section of the Fourteenth Amendment closes as follows: "But neither the United States nor any State shall assum or pay any debt or obligation incurred in aid of insurrection or rebellion against the United States, or any claim for the loss or emancipation of any slave; but all such debts, obligations and claims shall be held illegal and void." illegal and void." This is the language of the organic law. It is plain and imperative. Before a dollar of the rebel debt can be assumed, or a penny paid for the slaves, threefourths of the States, by solemn vote of their Legislatures or conventions, must sanction the expenditure. That is to say, the people of these Northern States and the non-slave holders and the ex-slaves of the South must deliberately tax themselves for these purposes. The probability of their doing thing of the sort is something which the voter can figure out for himself.

Even sillier, if possible, is the talk about a formal or practical, of the disfranchisement, negroes. About this scarecrow, and the kin-dred one labeled "revival of ku-kluxism," we shall have more to say at another time. At present, it is enough to remark: First. that the white people of the South earnestly protest that they have no other purpose than to respect the political rights of their black neighbors; second, that it is their plain, obvious interest to do so; third, that if, in spite of their protestations, they have the will to of their protestations, they have the will to annul these rights, they still will not do it for the simple but sufficient reason that they have not the power. When in a free country like this, a country of popular institutions, the supreme franchise of citizenship has once been bestowed upon a class numbering handred of thousands of ing hundreds of thousands of members, it is useless to talk of recalling it—idle to fear that it may be recalled. Such a thing has never been known, and it never will be. Wendell Phillips and his tellow alarmists have common sense against them as well as history. Their scarecrow is very well got up. It will undoubtedly be successful with a portion of the newly enfranchised. But among white Republicans, it is only the weaker brethren that will be taken in by it.

THE EVENING NEWS.

FRIDAY, AUGUST 23, 1872.

THE CITY.

MINOR MENTION. Walter Bray takes a benefit to-night.

Pole-raising in Indianola this evening. Prof. Gresh has opened a dancing school in Washington Hall.

Kreglo's business block, corner New York street and Indiana avenue, has been sold for Carl Habische, a young lad, was run over by an ice wagon yesterday, and considerably injured.

The Fifth Ward have a pole-raising at the corner of South and Illinois streets Monday

State Fair Grounds will be sold at auction-Thursday next. The pole-raising at the corner of Maryland and California streets has been postponed until to-morrow evening. The Adjutant General yesterday shipped sixty stand of arms to the Waveland, Montgomery county, company. There is a prospect that two of the pillars of the State Capitol will speedily fall from lack of proper foundation. Repairs are not in order. Robert Morrison's team was frightened in running away mashed the wagon over a fire plug. The Third Ward Greeley Club have a poleraising to-night at the Yellow Bridge, in which the various city clubs have been invited to join. Dr. Stevens was thrown from his buggy on South New Jersey street yesterday afternoon, while trying to make too short a turn, and somewhat injured. A rural young man put in an appearance at Bryan's drug store last night with the side of his head burned in a frightful manner-caused by the premature explosion of a small balloon he was experimenting with. The First Ward Greeley Club permanently organized last night by electing A. B. Condit President; Dr. J. T. Boyd, John Jacques. Samuel Rosenberg and Wm. F. Christian, Vice Presidents; John Miller, Secretary, W.

R. Hogshire, Treasurer; W. C. Tarkington,

Robert Connelly and W. R. Hogshire, were made members of the Finance Committee.

Vagrants and Nuisances. Could not those low drinking saloons where liquor is continually sold to drunken men and women, and where thieves and loaf- tended eyes upon what seemed to him more ers are harbored, be prosecuted under the nuisance law by the police? The raid made by the Chief some months ago had an effect to thin out the cut-throats with which the city was infected at that time, but the leniency of the past few weeks has again allowed them to accumulate, and the low drinking dens now swarm with these blotches of humanity, and the principal street corners during promenade hours are dotted with their ugly countenances? Is the vagrant isw null and void during election times, that these unsightly evils must continue day after day? Public sentiment backed the Chief of Police in his former raid; it is equally as strong to in ladies' and gents' gold watches. day notwithstanding the political heat.

Abram's weakness arises from excessive religious excitement, and he is dangerous when in one of his missionary moods.

pontaneous Combustion. The frequent fires at the school furniture actory, on the Lafayette Bailroad, above Michigan street, have caused some discussion among those concerned as to the cause, the spontaneous combustion theory coming in for its share. Last night an experiment was tried, which makes this theory quite plausible, as far as the fires as this establishment are concerned, at least. Fine shavings. known as excelsior, are used about the fac tory for wiping and cleaning the surface of the wood after it has been fluished and coated with starch, japan, naptha and other ingredients to fill the pores of the wood and give it polish. Last evening after the air had become cool, a barrel of these shavings, partially saturated with this mixture, was covared and placed in the yard, to discover if any unusual heat was evolved. Two hours afterward a strong smell of burning wood and varnish was noticed, and on examining the barrel it was found that its contents were so hot that the hand could not be borne-upon them. The barrel was removed to the street to prevent a conflagration, where it smoked and steamed for a long time, but did not uite take fire. It is thought that had the shavings been perfectly dry and placed in as warm a place as the barrel that took fire in the boiler room on Wednesday night, they rould certainly have blazed up and caused a conflagration. We record this case, that those who have occasion to use excelsior, cotton waste, or anything of the sort for cleaning furniture, machinery, or anything upon which oil or any of the products of petroleum are used, may be warned to burn or otherwise safely dispose of them, and avoid calling upon the fire department.

A late New York paper tells an amusing reminiscence of John F. Cowan, the author, laying the scene at the Metropolitan Theater, in this city. Cowan at that time was connected with a travelling company who were billed to "do" Hamlet, and at the ninth hour the "ghost" being found in the House of Lords, "sea-sick," he was induced to personate the character. The actor to whom the part had been originally assigned had mysteriously disposed of the dress which he intended to wear during the performance. The refreshment stands and boots on the perhaps to produce the stimulants which had laid him low; and as the 'wardrobe of the travelling company was rather limited, the chief article of clothing available for the character was a tattered India rubber overcoat. This Cowan donned, and after receiving a baker's roller in lieu of a kingly truncheon, stalked upon the stage and went through the part-reading the lines from a book and occasionally interpolating to suit himself. The first act was little better than a farce, and "Hamlet" was terribly enraged. The relation continues:

that he had offended his broth actor, and he resolved to do the remainder of yesterday afternoon by a thunder-bolt, and his duty with becoming gravity. Soon afterward, being thirsty, he took off his helmet, put on a tall hat, and, dressed as he was, urried from the theater to Fahrback's Washington Hotel, next door, where he refreshed himself with a couple of soda cock tails. As his presence would not be again required until the fourth scene of the third act, he was in no hurry to return. To prevent a "stage wait," however, he had re quested a boy in the theater to summon him few minutes before his next scene came on Cowan was in the midst of an exciting dis conssion in the bar-room, with some friends, when the boy harriedly entered and called

> "Quick, Mr. Cowan! You haven't a moment to spare.

Cowan leaped to his feet, and darted for the theater like a phantom. Reaching the wings, he discovered that there was not a moment to spare. His cue was uttered by Hamlet, who, with the Queen, occupied the stage in the well-known closet scene. The Shost quickly smoothed the folds of his India rubber coat, and strode majestically be fore the audience, who made the house ring with laughter on noticing that the Ghost this time appeared-not with a helmet-but with a plug hat!

"Good God!" exclaimed Hamlet, in one of Forrest's whispers, thunderstruck at the sight of the plug bat; and then, with a choking sensation, he stuttered out in a loud voice the sentence with which he greets the unexpected appearance of the spectre:

"Wha-what would your gracious figure?

The amazement of Hamlet may be imag ined when it is recollected that he had just uttered Shakespeare's, description of the 'gracious figura' before him. He now stared upon a rubber-clad form resembling a night watchman of the eighteenth century, in-stead of a king possessing

"the front of Jove bimself; An eye like Mars, to threaten and command."

The remainder of the scene excited nothing but laughter from the audience; while Hamlet stood transfixed, gazing with disrepellent than a real spectre. The boister ous hilarity of the audience continued until the disappearance of the royal ghost and his plug hat. No one who witnessed that per-formance could deny that although Cowan may not have looked every inch a king, he was at least a lively ghost.

THE CITY.

WATER in the canal is very low.

HARPERS' and Frank Leslie's for the cur rent week of Cathcart & Cleland's.

GEORGE S. STACKHOUSE, Esq., of Evansville. was at the State offices this morning. ONE of the colored Sunday Schools went on an excursion to Lafayette this morning. Since the chase by Officers Bolen and Taffe there has been no more public bathing in the canal. THE "beauties" of the abandoned portion of the canal is very apparent during the present sultry weather. REV. MR. Hype, who is spending his vacation at Minneapolis, is wrestling vigorously with the chills. The physicians aver that he imported them.

G. G. Cook, of the I. C. & St. L. returned to-day from a numerous holiday in Iowa. He still preserves that comely avoirdupois and looks ruddy.

THE attention of the police authorities is called to the unhealthy condition of the atmosphere arising from the filthy hog pens in the neighborhood of the Seventh Presbyterian Church.

He Didn't Know.

Yesterday Cornelius Leary, a quiet, genteel-looking fellow, became wildly drunk, and in this condition made things whirl in Charley Harmon's saloon. This forenoon he paid a fine for malicious trespass, disturbing the peace, assault and battery, etc.-complaint to which he plead guilty and contended to know nothing about. Cornelius's memory may be defective, but he will remember with more distinctness hereafter.

Pay in Coppers. Some days ago the Mayor fined Herman Bowers $9 90 for resisting an officer, and the defenant gave security for its payment. This forenoon he presented himself at Court. and after getting a receipt made out in due form, tendered a cigar box containing 690 old style copper cents; remarking "you can take that or nothing." The Mayor concluded to take nothing, and at once ordered the defendant under arrest for failing to pay fine. At last accounts Herman was being piloted to the station house. He had taken great trouble to gather up these coppers, and hoasted considerably how he would "get even with that judge." Perhaps he will, but per pair. the present situation don't look like it.

Articles of Association. Articles of association of the Greenleaf Manufacturing Company were fred with the Secretary of State this morning. The object of the company is for the manufacture and sale of turn tables, engines and railway equipments. Capital stock $150,000, divided into shares of $50 each. Term of existence fifty years. The business of this corporation will be managed by a board of eleven directors, in or near Indianapolis. S. E. Stratton, James B. Mitchner, John W. Westfield, Abram Mitchner, David W. Lomax, John Hazelett and George Nichol filed papers with the Secretary of State this morning, forming themselves into a corporation to be known as the "Michner Machine Works," for the manufacture and sale of all kinds of castings, engines and agricultural implements. Capital stock $30,000; divided implements. Capital stock $30,000, distance into shares of $52 each. Term of existence forty pears. Place of business in the city of A Vigorous Duck.

1 esterday noon Joseph Coly, residing on South Tennessee street, went home to his dinner, and finding the meal not ready threw himself into a paroxysm of senseless rage. First he broke the bedstead, threw the furniture into the street, tore the clothing into shreds, kicked over the cookstove, and then taking his wife's furs. Sunday bonnet and nice dress, threw them into the privy. When Othcers Preston and Buser arrived, he was busy cutting up the cabbage and other garden truck. It does not appear that he offered his wife any violence. This forenoon he was fined about forty doilars and committed in default of payment. Had the Mayor added a straight jacket treatment, the hosiery and notions. punishment would have been complete.

Another Brute.

The forenoon, Simon Masoner, a great big, double-fisted, overgrown bully, was arraigned before the Mayor for ill-treating his wife, and the evidence proved that during a family discussion yesterday he had knocked her down with a chair. The woman's swollen cheek and rainbow-colored eye showed the severity of the blow. It was astonishing with what severity the Court remarked $25 and costs"-in default of which he was taken n charge by the City Marshal.

Twenty-five dollars and costs is equal to six weeks' imprisonment, a punishment not half severe enough for such uncivilized condust. Nothing less than public flagellation will abate the nnisance, for a man who privalue whips his wife should be publicly

A Bailiff's Danger.

Last evening Harry Adams and Bailiff Harding went down in the neighborhood of Gallaudet to arrest one William Nixon on Grand Jury indictments for disturbing s neeting and carrying concealed weapons. A guilty conscience had magnified the enormity of his offense, and Nixon imagined himself doomed to a penitentiary life. The officers arrived at his homestead shortly after dark, and made inquiries for William. He was absent, "and wouldn't return to-night," was the answer received from the women inmates, Seeing one of the girls dodging around the house Harding followed, and after skirmishing down a corn-field came in close proximity to his man. Nixon turned and ran, the Bailiff after him. Alongside the I. C. & L. track the pursued tumbled into the ditch, and then again into the one on the other side, which enabled Harding to close up the gap. Nixon then drew his revolver and pulled the trigger, but the cap failed to explode. Before he could again prepare to fire, Harding sprang upon him, wrested away his weapon and clapped on the hand-cuffs. After that the defendant had no objection to coming to this city with the officers.

Hat. One of its leading merits of this style for the fall of 1872 is the absence of all exaggeration in its conformation. All the details of its shape seem to assimilate with each other in perfect symmetry. This dress hat can be seen at Ike Davis, Conner & Co.'s, 22 West Washington street.

Ike Kahn, successor to Sol. Moritz & Co., 19 West Washington street, is prepared to make up custom work in merchant tailoring in an unexceptionable manner, and at prices that can not be duplicated in the city of Indianapolis.

Ten Becauses.

A hundred reasons might be given why I yon's Kathairon should be used by every intelligent human being in preference to every other preparation for the hair, but ten will suffice. Here they are: Because it nourishes the fibers, multiples them and makes them grow; because it thus prevents them from withering and bleaching; because it removes the scurf and dandruff which choke them as tares choke the golden grain; because it keeps the scalpe cool and prevents eruptions; because it removes the scale of the sca choke the goiden grain: because it keeps the scalpe cool and prevents eruptions; because it renders the hair as lustrous as satin; because it make it p lant and elastic; because it is a fragrant and delightful dressing; because it does not soil the pillow, the cap or the hat; because it is without a rival in cheapness, and because no other article sold for the same purpose, in this or any other country, possesses all, or even one-half, of these invaluable properties.

INDIANA ITEMS.

Nelson Sumner shot and killed Daniel Carr in a drunken quarrel at Brazil on Saturday night.

A Terre Haute dog lost his life yesterday because he swallowed the engagement ring of an impatient lady who was feeding him. A drift of logs resting on a bed of sand was found in digging a well at the Martin county fair grounds at Loogootee, a few days ago. The logs were thirty feet below the surface. James A. Defler, aged twenty, writes from Ohio to his father in Fort Wayne, asking permission to come home. He ran away nine years ago, and his father made unavailing search for him. James Summers, arrested near Tetersburg for horse stealing, wanted a knife to cut a chew of tobacco and cut his throat with it. He will probably die. He has written a statement protesting his innocence.

Ten years ago a child six months old was stolen from Fort Wayne, from motives of re vengs. The mother died of grief, and the father has been ever since looking for his lost boy. He found him the other day with a farmer living twelve miles from Salem

Spotted Tail and the Wizard. [From the St. Louis Democrat |

Prof. St. Jean, the well-known wizard, who lurks behind a huge cluster of pearls and emeralds, and invented a magnetic love pow-der, which will fetch the most callous grass widow, new deserves an additional title, as the man who made Spotted Tail get under the bed. The Professor called in at the Eyerett House yesterday morning, and was in-troduced to the urbane chief, who said, "How!" and stretched out his hand. Mr. St. Jean took it and shook it cordially, when suddenly Spotted Tail dropped the outstreted palm, his law fell, his hair rose. The Pro-lessor's hat had by some spiritual agency lifted itself a clear three inches from his hair. Two Strike, who was standing near by, gave one groan and fled into the corridor, where he amused himself making love to a servant otted Tail by this time had perceived that his guest was Great Medicine, and sat that his guest was Great Medicine, and sat down at a respectable distance from him. The professor walked up to him, and taking him by the nose, drew about a pound of fine out tohacco out of that prominent organ. The chief stared in open mouthed amazement, and out of that open mouth the adroit professor drew an inkstand. The eyes of the braves dilated with wonder and terror, which increased when the magician cut off five or six yards of the chief's blanket and restored it. Suddenly he raised the chief's blanket, gripped him by the leg, and drew out of the member a white rabbit. This rabbit, was, so to speak, the last straw, and with bit, was, so to speak, the last straw, and with

from the room. In the afternoon the Professor paid a se ond visit to the chief and was received with distinguished honors. The braves it was noticed, preferred to keep near the door. Spotted Tail, inspired by M. St. Jean's example, playfully approached the wizard ample, playfully approached the wizard, fumbled about his coat for a minute, and then drew forth Mrs. Spotted Tail's handkerchief, which he pretended to have discovered in the Professor's coat. This amateur prestidigitation was received with manifestations of delight by the admiring Indians. The Professor then entertained the savages for nearly an hour with his repertoire of magic, winning "Hows!" and golden opinions from all sorts of Sioux. On leaving him Spotted Tail expressed his belief that the pale face was great medicine, and hinted, appropos of the startling way in which the Professor's hair had lifted itself at their first interview, that if the Professor would come to the plains he would show him comething even more sensational in the way of raising hair.
